Ombudsman inform the citizens of the country of the outcomes of their investigations through the media in an effort to be transparent and accountable and also as a way of making government departments and institutions accountable to the citizens. This is also a perfect opportunity to inform citizens about the work of the Ombudsman institution.

AORC's next offering is a facilitated discussion dealing with the best methods/tools for conducting press releases, press conferences and interviews with the media.

This offering is an excellent opportunity to discuss best methods/tools Ombudsman institutions in Africa can use to conduct press releases, press conferences and interviews with the media in an effort to be transparent and accountable and also as a way of making government departments and institutions accountable to the citizens.
